

Training Resources: Social Emotional Development

There are many resources available to help you support staff members' learning related to social emotional development. This handout provides a short list of publicly-available resources. You can use the resources to train staff or provide ongoing professional development and coaching.

1. Infant & Toddler Training Modules: Center on the Social Emotional Foundations for Early Learning
http://csefel.vanderbilt.edu/resources/training_infant.html
This site provides PowerPoint training materials, printable classroom resources, and resources to share with families. Materials are designed for Infant & Toddler classrooms.
2. Preschool Training Modules: Center on the Social Emotional Foundations for Early Learning
http://csefel.vanderbilt.edu/resources/training_preschool.html
This site is similar to the one described above, but the materials are designed for preschool classrooms.
3. Technical Assistance Center on Social Emotional Intervention for Young Children
<https://challengingbehavior.cbcs.usf.edu/>
This site has pages dedicated to (a) training resources and (b) coaching resources around social emotional development for children ages 0-5.
4. Cyberbullying Toolkit
<https://www.common sense media.org/educators/cyberbullying-toolkit>
This website has downloadable resources to share directly with school-age children and their families. You can also use the materials to educate staff members.
5. Bullying Prevention Training Center
<http://www.stopbullying.gov/prevention/training-center/index.html>
This resource, designed by the U.S. government, provides downloadable PowerPoints and training materials to educate school-age staff members about bullying and social skills.